

THE BROADHEAD FAIR.

If there is a fair within 50 miles of Stanford you can bet your boots Lincoln county will be represented. They know a good thing when they see it and consequently they took in the Broadhead fair by the hundreds. A good deal of stock from Lincoln was also there and as usual a goodly portion of the premiums went to them.

The rain of Tuesday made it necessary to postpone the exhibition one day and it was money in the stockholders' pockets, for that carried the fair over Friday, which is the best day for crowds. There were never more people in Broadhead than were there Thursday and Friday and were well repaid. The good Rockcastle county people recognized them all as their guests and entertained them royally.

The buildings at the fair are put up with much permanency and the Rockcastle Fair Association will give exhibitions each year. They made money this year notwithstanding the big outlay and next year they will offer premiums that will bring the best horses in the State.

The officers, E. E. Protheroe, president, J. W. Tate, vice president, R. H. Hamm, secretary, and A. E. Albright, treasurer, are the right men for the places they fill and I move that they be made the officers for all time to come. They are accommodating, efficient, painstaking and have the interest of the fair at heart, more probably than any other four gentlemen in the county.

A. C. Dunn got second money in the trot Friday, won the fancy turnout premium and several others. Mr. C. C. McClure, of Paint Lick, formerly a Lincoln county man, won the pace and the Interior Journal's premium for the best saddle stallion, mare or gelding. Tom Napier got the purse in the fat man's race. John Daddler, also of Lincoln, came second. There was only one entry in the ugly man's race, but Hamp Reynolds would have gotten it had there been a dozen. Messrs. R. S. Martin and E. L. Albright won premiums on their babies, two as pretty children as one could find in a day's journey. Dink Farmer and Tom Benedict won the running race with one of Mr. S. H. Baughman's crack bangtails. There were two other starters but they were not in the race at all.

The stores were all closed during the fair and the town presented a dull appearance, quite a difference to that of the fair grounds. There was no opposing faction like there is in so many towns, but the merchants and all vied with each other in making the fair a success.

Our countryman, John Daddler, who was driving in the pacing race, met with an accident that not only lost him his race, but bruised him up considerably. On rounding a short curve his sulky turned over and he was thrown out with much force. He was driving the sorrel pacer Fatty Nunneller used to own and was going after the two-minute record when the bad luck befell him.

The Broadhead fair, assisted by Mr. A. H. Kinley, of Stanford, furnished the music, which was highly complimented; Col. J. P. Chandler played the role of ring master to perfection, while Mr. H. H. Brough made as fine a starter as ever handled a flag.

Pretty girls were on bad galore and more courting was done at Broadhead during the fair than ever before in the same length of time. A delightful party at Mr. R. S. Martin's was one of the many pleasant features of Fair week.

Messrs. R. L. Ewell and J. Mort Rothwell spoke here Thursday night, when it is said the former was literally eaten up. In fact he is "little red hog" fame was not in it at all and even some of the republicans were sorry of the joint debate. Mr. Rothwell made a capital speech, I am told, and did good for the cause. The republicans here are not feeling good over their prospects in November. The free silver sentiment has invaded their ranks and is growing and they know that unless something is done Rockcastle will fall over into the democratic column. So mote it be.

CONGRESSMAN J. W. BAILEY.

The Eloquent Texan Makes a Magnificent Speech for Democracy to an Enthusiastic Audience.

CONGRESSMAN BAILEY.

A court-house full of anxious, earnest, sturdy people from all sections of the county, with a goodly number from Garrard and Boyle, and some from Madison, greeted the Hon. J. W. Bailey, when he arose to speak here Friday night. Orab Orchard was represented, so was the Wayneburg precinct, and so was the Hustonville while for miles around from this precinct the people came to hear the eloquent Congressman from Texas expound democratic doctrine and expatiate on the blessings that will result from the return to the free coinage of silver. An organ had been placed on the rostrum and the following ladies and gentlemen at the shortest notice sang the new and popular song "Sixteen to One." Mrs. A. G. Huffman, organist, Misses Octavia Sizemore, Nettie and Georgia Wray, Bessie Richards, Mary Bruce, Katie Lee Yeager, Della Feland; Messrs. J. N. Saunders, A. G. Huffman, cornetist, Jack Runt, A. E. Hundley, Carroll Halter, Joe E. Waters, D. E. Logan, T. D. Roney.

On being introduced by Hon. R. C. Warren in a few well chosen words, Mr. Bailey acknowledged the compliment the song implied and said "If the gentlemen of Lincoln will vote 16 to 1 as well as the ladies sing '16 to 1,' it will be the braver democratic party in the State." The speaker then entered at once upon the discussion of the Chicago platform, but had not spoken five minutes before a fire alarm was sounded, causing many to rush out. Others thought they recognized it as a radical trick to break up the meeting, and so informed the speaker, who declared that he could not believe Kentucky people could be guilty of such disreputable methods. "But," said he, "if we have to fight the devil with fire, we will hold one for them in November that will be better than the place where the fire is never quenched and the worm dieth not." "And we'll throw them into it too," cried a hearer. "Yes and there are republicans so green that their bodies would almost put out the fire in the lower regions," added the speaker. Order was soon restored and it was ascertained later that the alarm was caused by B. H. Banks' chimney burning out.

After referring briefly to the Chicago platform in general and showing the absurdity of the charge of anarchy and socialism brought against it by the republicans and their aid society, he launched into the currency question and made it so plain that the weakest mind could grasp it. He refuted the pet argument of the gold standard advocates that over production had caused the fall in prices of nearly everything and showed by statistics that the yield of wheat had not kept up with the increase of population and that there was more surplus cotton in 1873 than in 1895. Comparing the prices of these staple commodities now with those that prevailed in 1873, when silver was demonetized, he showed that silver bullion would buy as much now as then and that it was on account of the appreciation of the value of gold and not on account of the depreciation of the value of articles of commerce that caused lower prices and hard times. Cotton was worth 17 cents in gold in 1873 and wheat $1.03. In 1895 the one was worth 8 and the other 51 cents. As the production of neither of these articles had kept pace with the demand owing to increased population, he argued that it was the money that had become dearer and that instead of "honest money," about which the gold standard people prate so much, it was really dishonest money since instead of being worth 100 cents as provided by law, it was actually worth 200 cents. A dollar that rises in value is as much a dishonest dollar as the one that depreciates in value and it is the purpose of the democratic party to give the country a dollar whose value or purchasing power remains the same to-day, yesterday and forever. Such a result will be reached when the mints are again open to the free and unlimited coinage of silver as they are now to gold and the white metal resumes its place as redemption money. Silver is good enough for the poor man, but gold alone enriches the rich. The democratic party is the party of the people and recognizes no classes. It proposes that money that is good enough for the rich shall also be good enough for the rich and by the eternal it intends that it shall be.

In 1873 a planter could sell a bale of cotton for $85, pay his taxes of $50 and have $35 left. Now he has to sell two bales to pay taxes of $50 and has only $25 left. It is so on nearly everything else. Gold has gone up and prices have come down. In Mexico, India and other silver countries a silver dollar buys as much as it ever did and it is only when compared with the 200 cent gold dollar that a difference is found. The gold standard advocates would put a farmer between the upper and nether mill stone. They tell him to go to work and make something to sell and he will have plenty of money. He goes to work raises a big crop and when he can't sell it for as much as the cost of production, they tell him he has worked too hard, made too much and created an overproduction. So at last it is only the lazy, shiftless fellow, according to their argument, who is the real benefactor. He makes nothing and consequently does not help to produce the surplus that is now so greatly magnified. The gold men will not see that in driving silver from its place as money they have reduced the money supply below the needs of commerce. They had rather claim that the yard stick had shortened of its own accord or the earth had shrunk than to yield their pet theory. The gold standard makes a dearer dollar and that makes falling prices and hard times.

The appreciation of gold has been so great that a man could have buried $10,000 of it ten years ago and had $3,000 more now than if he had invested it in real estate. And were the Saviour on earth to-day He would be compelled to commend instead of condemn the slothful servant who buried his talents. Farmers who are led to believe that making wool free has reduced its price forget that the price has been steadily decreasing for a number of years, due to a decrease of the demand. Cotton has to a great extent taken its place in manufacture, some cotton blankets being made now that are better in appearance and fully as warm as the wool product.

Another favorite argument of the gold men is that all the country needs is confidence, not money, but confidence can only be created by cash, as any man will find if he tries to get accommodation at the banks or other money lending institutions. But it is impossible to give even a respectable synopsis of the magnificent effort in our circumscribed space. Nothing but a verbatim report could do it justice, and even that would be lacking of the charm of its splendid delivery. From its beginning until its close, two hours later, with an eloquent peroration to Kentucky and Kentuckians, who never fail of their duty either in war or peace, there was not a dull sentence in it and when he sat down there were loud calls for him to continue. The speech was a vote maker, settling those who are true to the faith more firm in their convictions and changing others who had been almost persuaded to either vote for McKinley or the next thing to it, for old man Palmer. A large number of persons crowded up to shake hands and congratulate the speaker, many of whom told him that they had never before heard so convincing nor so fair an argument for the necessity of the free coinage of silver.

Long calls were made for R. G. Williams, of Mt. Vernon, at the close of Mr. Bailey's effort, but Mr. Williams thought that the people had had enough of a good thing for one night and declined to respond.

—Jake Minton's house at Upland, Pulaski county, caught fire and was burned to the ground. Mrs. Minton's father, about 80 years old, was burned to death before he could be gotten out and Mrs. Minton was severely burned in trying to save him, and will die.

LANCASTER, GARRARD COUNTY.

—The appointment of Hon. J. C. S. Blackburn to speak at this place on the 10th inst. has been postponed to a later date, and Hon. Allen O. Meyers, the distinguished orator, from Ohio, will speak here, on Thursday, the 8th. The democratic campaign committee has advertised him, and a large crowd is expected. Ladies are invited to attend. Hon. Robert Harding and other distinguished democratic speakers will be here on the 26th inst., county court day.

—It is well-known that the National democrats will vote for Chief Justice Pryor for re-election to the appellate bench. If they were only reminded of the fact that they can vote under their device and then put the stencil opposite Judge Pryor's name, in the other column. We hope that the Interior Journal will start this along the line and thus aid in the election of the pure and distinguished judge, whose decisions will have nothing to do with the money, or the tariff question.

—An enthusiastic democratic convention was held here on last Saturday, for the purpose of nominating a candidate, for the Legislature, to succeed Judge W. E. Walker, resigned. Col. George T. Farris called the convention to order. Hon. R. H. Tomlinson was made permanent chairman and M. D. Hughes, secretary. Hon. Letcher Oweley nominated A. B. Brown, Jr., and he was unanimously chosen as the standard bearer. He made a few remarks expressing his allegiance to the party and his determination to win. On the evening of Nov. 3d, the republican candidate will realize the fact that he has been in a race.

SHELBY CITY.

—Rev. Henry Faulconer will preach at the Presbyterian church Tuesday night.

—The Christian Endeavor entertainment, which was postponed from Sunday night to Wednesday night, netted over $5 for the cause of missions.

—The Knights of Honor picnic cost the lodge about $30, but everybody had a nice time and plenty to eat. The Junction City Brass Band furnished music by day and the Danville colored string band by night for the dancing.

—On Saturday at the Gilcher House in Danville, Mr. Charles Lyons, of Lyon's Station, Ky., was united in marriage to Miss Calla Williams, one of Junction City's most popular young ladies. They left for his home immediately after their marriage. Mr. Lyons was a student at Centre College two years ago and now is an operator on the L. & N. at Lebanon Junction. Where is Roland Burchell?

—Mr. W. A. Daniels, a former pupil of your correspondent at the Centre College Preparatory, and now a candidate for the sophomore watch at Centre and a seminary student, preached quite an interesting sermon at the Presbyterian church Sunday night, aided by a quartet, composed of Messrs. Sharp, Rogers, Grant and Stoffer; Messrs. McCormack and Vondr-Lippe also aided in making our C. E. observance Sunday meeting more enthusiastic.

—Sunday night as meeting was being held at the Presbyterian church, Mr. John Schreyer, of Danville, called Mr. Samuel Kelley to the front door and after some talking, commenced to elash at him with a cane. He cut Mr. Kelley a long cut on the left side, not deep, but bloody. Messrs. Wm. Tuttle arrested Mr. Schreyer, who had gone in and taken a seat, but was very angry, over whom the deputy constable, Mr. Kelley is a quiet and sober young man and thought Mr. Schreyer was acting in fun.

DISAPPOINTED THEN.—Hon. T. P. Hill, of Stanford, spoke at the opera house on Monday afternoon to a small audience. Those who heard him were very moderate in their expression of appreciation of his speech in favor of gold bug doctrine. Those who were opposed to his bolting proclivities regarded his speech as a disappointment, some going so far as to say the gentleman was fearfully at sea in his arguments and lack of information. Col. Hill should take some preparatory lessons in statistics before he goes before the people. A farmer present says that the colonel made some of the worst breaks he ever knew a public speaker of any character to make in the way of blunders or misrepresentation. He thinks the colonel badly informed on the subject of the currency. —Bowling Green Courier.

Col. Thomas P. Hill came all the way from Stanford and in order to be certain to be here he came in a train or two ahead. The colonel had a very small crowd and the $25 paid for the opera house might have been put to a better use. The city court, police court room, or even the law office in which "Attorney" C. W. Milken's rousing convention was held would have been amply large to hold the gold bugs, democrats and republicans who assembled to hear him. The colonel is a good man and a fairly good speaker and deserves better crowds and a better cause than he had today. —Bowling Green Journal.

—A man named Springfield, in Trig county, killed his little brother with a blow intended for a refractory mule.

When the Louisville Times picks its large ears and brays that the Interior Journal is an apostate, it shows its ignorance either of the meaning of the word or the paper's attitude in the present canvass. The Times man knows, if he knows anything, that we have simply deferred to the judgment of the democratic party expressed by its highest authority, believing it dishonorable to agree to so abide by participating in the primaries and then sell to do so, when our personal preference was not embodied in the platform. Since the Times has become a renegade and turned its back on the party it had heretofore professed to love, it has shown a reckless disregard both for the truth and the feelings of its former associates and friends. But this seems the way of the world. Let a man or paper start to the bad and he goes with such rapidity and recklessness that there is left no time for expostulation. But four weeks from tomorrow the Times will see its error and either acknowledge it or go horse, foot and dragon over to the republican party, which it is now aiding and comforting so valiantly.

CINCINNATI, though used to such things, never saw such a political demonstration as that given Mr. Bryan Friday night. From the Union depot to the Gibson Hotel and from there to the Music Hall, the sidewalks and streets were filled with a surging mass of humanity all bent on seeing and hearing the next president of the United States. Music Hall was packed, but as it could not hold a tithe of the vast crowd, Mr. Bryan was compelled to address the overflow on the street and afterwards spoke in Covington, making three speeches that night after half a dozen or so at railway stations during the day. After his swing around the circle, Mr. Bryan expresses the most supreme confidence in his election and in this confidence thousands of well posted people enthusiastically join. It is written in the stars that Bryan will be elected four weeks from to day and the republicans, their aid society and allies can not prevent it.

FLORIDA seems to be peculiarly preordained by Providence to suffer from storms and other casualties. Two years ago nearly all its orange trees were destroyed by frosts and a few days ago a tornado left death and destruction in its wake, while a tidal wave added to the casualties and work of ruin. Cedar Keys was almost obliterated and other towns suffered almost as severely. The list of the dead and wounded run up into the hundreds, while many lives were lost which will not be known until there is an enumeration of missing friends and families. The people are almost paralyzed by the calamities, which tread on each other's heels so fast they follow, and there is great destitution and suffering.

EX-GOV. CAMPBELL, of Ohio, will take the stump for Bryan and Sewall, though he stands just where he did on the currency question before the convention. Like all good democrats he defers to the judgment of his party and in doing so he says: "I feel that I am not making any greater sacrifice than Major McKinley did when he turned his back on his frequent utterances for silver and accepted a nomination on a platform which upholds that for which he so roundly denounced Mr. Cleveland." The governor is a power in the Buckeye State and his position is worth thousands of votes for the democratic ticket.

Gov. JOHN YOUNG BROWN, democratic nominee for Congress, has challenged Hon. Walter Evans, the republican nominee, to meet him in joint debate, but the old icicle, knowing that he could not warm up to the occasion, has very sensibly declined. The bolshoiwars want let their man Baskin debate with him either, so the governor will have to play alone hand, which will be far from being a short one. He breaks a bone occasionally, but his tongue never loses its cunning, nor does he ever lack for power to give utterance to the faith that is in him.

W. E. HANSON, independent republican candidate for Congress in the 33, has withdrawn. Dr. Hunter had just as well do so, except to perform the martyr act. Milliken, the so-called sound money nominee, can do as he pleases. He will cut about as much figure off as on the ticket, with John Rhea forcing the fighting and carrying the standard for the democratic party.

—Missouri is said to be safe for Bryan by 100,000.

REPUBLICAN papers are springing up like mushrooms. In addition to the Mt. Vernon Republican, George R. Martz and L. W. Bethune editors, of which we made mention in our last, the Barbourville News has been received. The latter is edited by W. W. Sawyers, Jr., and both are pretty good papers, for those who like that kind of papers. The Mt. Vernon sheet is evidently printed by the Richmond Pantagraph, of which it is as much alike as a couple of black-eyed peas.

Since the above was written, the Anderson Republican, Claude P. Cozine, editor, has made its appearance. It bears the marks of the difficulty under which it was gotten out, but holds out the promise that the next number will make up for the delinquencies of this.

In assuming editorial and proprietary charge of the Mt. Vernon Eagle, Mr. James Maret, rebaptizes it the Signal, its original and more appropriate name. The issue shows that Jim's pen has not lost its cunning nor his nose its keen sense of smell for a news item. Here's to you old fellow, and may you live long and get dead loads of free silver for your labors.

W. B. HANSON, late of the Barbourville Experiment, has become a partner with C. B. Hill in the Beattyville Enterprise, which they are making a red hot Bryan paper.

THE convention in the 7th district proved a fizzle and a failure and adjourned Friday after many fruitless ballots since die without making a nomination. A call for a primary was made for the 17th by a vote of 87 1/2 to 73 1/2. Bronston lead throughout the balloting, but Carroll who was three times withdrawn and as many times re-entered, held the key to the situation. The others were afraid to adopt the rule to drop the hindmost candidate and that ended the first chapter of a very farcical performance. It is said that the primary insures Bronston's defeat.

BEGINNING about Oct. 15, Carlisle, Fellows, Lindsay, Cockran and Breckinridge will all be stumping Kentucky at the same time for sound money. —Courier-Journal. Well let it go at that. But even the uninitiated know that the real object is to elect McKinley, a man who was never sound on the money question, if these speakers are now, and who stands for everything else that is vicious in politics and antagonistic to democracy.

GEORGIA will answer Maine to-morrow and in no uncertain tones. Two years ago the democratic plurality was a little more than 20,000, but a conservative estimate places the plurality this year at 40,000. Party lines have been closely drawn and the democratic candidates have been fought within and without, but there is every reason to expect a victory which will mean far more than the result in Maine.

TONY CARROLL, secretary of the bolshoiwars committee, estimates the vote of the McKinley Aid Society in Kentucky at 50,000. As it took hard work to get less than 7,000 signers to enable them to have the ticket put on the ballot, it would look like that would cover the entire strength of the State, and we are here to wager that its vote will not exceed 10,000.

MCKINLEY made 16 speeches Saturday to "visiting delegations." It must be exceedingly tiresome for the hired men who have to listen at these harangues so often. An Ohio paper says that the same men go every day, to day as business men, to-morrow as McKinley democrats and so on in an endless chain.

POLITICAL POINTS.

—We Can't Pay Breckinridge will speak at Pineville today.

—The bolshoiwars of Indiana have deemed it inexpedient to nominate a State ticket.

—Senator Blackburn will speak at Mt. Vernon next Friday and at London and Corbin next day.

—Allen O. Myers will be at Lancaster next Thursday and will speak at 1:30. Make it a point to hear him.

—Bryan's majority over McKinley in the number of speeches delivered is said to be 120. They all count too.

—John G. Carlisle writes that he will deliver five speeches in Kentucky between October 15 and November 1.

—The Courier Journal exultingly says but three democrats will be elected to Congress from Kentucky this year.

—Gov. Bradley reimbursed the State for $320 paid Lt. Gov. Worthington as his salary during the time he occupied the executive chair in Gov. Bradley's stead.

—The republican campaign committee claims that a careful poll of the State gives it to McKinley by 10,000. They put the republican defection at 3,000 and the democratic at 10,000.

—In a speech at Pulaski, Tenn., ex-Gov. R. L. Taylor said that if H. Clay Evans made certain statements which he is reported to have made, he is "an infernal liar and an assassin."

—A reviewing stand, on which were Vice President Stevenson, Gov. Drake and many others, collapsed at Burlington, Ia., and a number of people were injured.

—The republican district convention at Somerset nominated S. V. D. Stout for the unexpired term of Commonwealth's attorney, to which office he was appointed by Gov. Bradley.

—Six citizens testify that O. K. Wheeler, democratic candidate for Congress in the 1st district, said in a speech in 1892 "that none but fools and populists advocated the free and unlimited coinage of silver."

—Secretary Carlisle has declined to divide time with Senator Blackburn, but the bolshoiwars are alarmed over the report that the democratic committee will have competent men on hand to answer the secretary anyhow.

—A complete poll of Hart county gives the Palmer and Buckner ticket, says the Record, 59 votes with one-third of them open to conversion. Palmer could issue his order in '65, depriving citizens of their suffrage and have men shot for exercising the right of freedom, but he can't do it now. Buckner surrendered at Donelson, but he can't surrender the people into Wall Street's hands.

—This is John M. Palmer's sixth bolt. The first was from the democratic party. The second was from the Illinois republican senatorial caucus which nominated Lincoln for Senator. The third was from the army of the United States in front of Atlanta, from pique at Gen. Sherman. The fourth was from the republican nomination of Grant in 1872. The fifth was from the populist platform he endorsed at Springfield in 1891.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

—Mr. Bryan has accepted the populist nomination for president, and says: "It tendered me in such a generous spirit and upon such honorable terms, that I am able to accept the same without departing from the platform adopted by the democratic National convention at Chicago. I fully appreciate the breadth of patriotism which has actuated the people's party, who, in order to consolidate the sentiment in favor of bimetalism, have been willing to go outside party lines and support as their candidate one already nominated by the democratic party, and also by the silver party."

—The democratic electoral ticket for Kentucky will be as follows: State at large, James P. Tarvin, of Covington; W. B. Smith, of Richmond; First district, J. C. Flournoy; Second, Judge H. F. Turner in place of O. W. Bransford, resigned; Third, W. R. Bowder, in place of Ed Drake, resigned; Fourth, Gus Brown; Fifth, Wallace McCoy; Sixth, Harvey Myers; Seventh, Robert Franklin, in place of W. C. Kimball, resigned; Eighth, R. J. Breckinridge, in place of L. H. Carter, resigned; Ninth, W. G. Ramsey; Tenth, Thomas J. Wells, 11th, Henry M. Beauchamp.

MT. VERNON.

—Wheat sowing has begun, Fall grain is plentiful and the farmers say they'll have "free silver or bust" to complete their happiness.

—Squirrels are unusually plentiful and I hear farmers complaining that they are playing the mischief with corn fields close to woodlands.

—Miss Nora Phillips' school here is flourishing and she is quite popular with the scholars and patrons. Several young men over the school age are desirous of attending.

—Mrs. Bettie Broadbue has rented the old Swope farm, on which she now resides, to Mr. Lawson, of the Hubble neighborhood, for 1897. She has lumber on the ground to extensively improve the residence on her other farm, the old Thurmond place, and will move to it January 1st.

—I saw a gentleman yesterday who recently explored the large cave on Dr. Herlan's farm, and he says that his party for 24 hours hunted for the far end of it, but failed to find it. It contains many interesting and novel curiosities. The large cave on Mrs. Hays' place is also frequently visited now.

—Everybody regrets that Mr. Linn Dawson and family are going to Missouri to locate. Better people never lived and there's no use talking about trying to fill their places here for it can't be done. Linn and his deserve the best the earth affords and the best wishes of their former neighbors will ever attend them.

—From all I can find out, this precinct is almost solid for Bryan. In traveling along the pike seven miles I met 17 men, at different intervals, and 16 answered that he was their Moses to lead them out of the dismal and depressed financial wilderness, while one couldn't so see it, but he was of African descent; thus by accident it was 16 to 1.

—Wherever two or three colored voters can after dark assemble themselves together in the name of Silent Free Silver McKinley (his record proves the truthfulness of this appellation) there they receive a blessing in the shape of misrepresentations of their interests by white orators, who wouldn't march with them in that republican parade in Stanford a few days ago. Deluding the ignorant is the unpardonable sin.

—Mr. James T. Hackley is one of the best posted men in this section on the financial question and can talk free silver to perfection. He says that when he went to Lexington recently to hear Bryan he got into a conversation with an old man of 70 years who had walked 30 miles to hear the speech of the next president, having for 49 years previously voted the republican ticket, but had seen the error of his way and been converted to democracy at the ratio of 10 to 1.

—One of their neighbors tells me that Dick Cobb is spending anxious moments about Love Lillard. They are partners in the live stock business and both are for the gold standard. Dick, however, says Love is on one side of this question one day; on the other side the next, and he is afraid Nov. 3 will strike him on the wrong day. All intelligent men change occasionally and Love has a perfect right to shift positions just as frequently as he pleases. Any man who censures Love for being on the right side election day has got me to whip, and that's no easy job, you know.

—From Mr. George A. Eubanks' residence one of the most commanding views in the county is obtained. Lancaster, Danville and many other points 10 miles distant are visible, and by the eye of faith he said he could see Bryan in St. Louis last Sunday, as the day was bright and clear. Mr. Eubanks recently had an experience that came near costing him a suit for divorce. He and his wife attended a big meeting and the building was crowded. Excitement ran high while the invitation song was being sung and a lady stepped upon a bench at she might have a better view of what was going on down on the mourners' bench. Mr. Eubanks standing in the crowded aisle close to her and in her excitement she took a seat on his shoulder. Naturally bashful, but always accommodating, he made up his mind to let her remain on her perch as long as his strength lasted, but Mrs. Eubanks happened to look around and then there was "Trouble in de Land." Ask him about it. SRETAW.

MT. VERNON, ROCKCASTLE CO.

—The early frost nipped the fodder and sugar cane on many farms.

—Miss Rosa Gentry received the $10 saddle at the fair, being the most grace fully rider.

—Prof. and Mrs. Scroggs gave their pupils a charming reception last Friday evening. All went home delighted.

—The readers of the Mt. Vernon Signal were pleasantly surprised last Friday to see it appear under the original popular name and for free silver. Mr. James Maret, who so successfully edited the paper in its infancy, resumes the trip.

—A protracted meeting will begin at the Christian church on the evening of the 10th inst., conducted by Elders Tingley and Ballou. The church has been under the care of the latter for the past three years and has increased in numbers and Christian zeal.

—Mrs. Reid and her Delacorte class will give a charming entertainment here in the near future. The class consists of Mrs. W. J. Sparks and Misses Mattie Williams, Mattie Weber, Susie Thompson, Lucile Joplin, Clara Kennedy, Ida May Adams and Beattie McClure, besides a large number of smaller pupils.

—After a brief illness of typhoid fever Mr. Jones Lair, son of Judge and Mrs. J. B. Lair, died at his home Friday, Oct. 2, surrounded by his weeping parents, brothers, Lobe and Armsted, his sister, Carrie, his betrothed and many sorrowing friends. Mr. Lair was a most worthy young man, highly esteemed by all who knew him and it is with deep regret we chronicle his early death.

—The death of Mrs. Mary Davis, wife of W. A. B. Davis, on last Friday night at 1 o'clock, though expected, was a great blow to her many friends and devoted family. Consumption claimed another victim. A beautiful Christian life was thus cut short, a loving husband robbed of a faithful helpmeet and five loving children deprived of their best friend, their kind and self-sacrificing mother. Elder Jos. Ballou conducted the funeral services at the church in a most appropriate manner, after which her remains were interred in the cemetery.

—The Brodhead fair is now a thing of the past, but was such an enjoyable affair for the hundreds who attended and withal such a success that all could consistently wish it repeated. The premiums were valuable and judiciously distributed. Among the many persons from this place who attended were Dr. and Mrs. A. G. Lovell, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Miller, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Cocke, Mr. and Mrs. O. O. Williams, Mrs. W. J. Sparks, Misses Florella Brown, Belle Scroggs, Kate Moore and Sallie Adams.

DEATH.—Mrs. Ben Holtezew, who was Miss Mary Willis, of Jessamine, died at her home in this county Friday of consumption, aged 55, leaving a husband and four children.

She had been a member of the Baptist church since she was 15 years of age and was a good Christian woman.

NEWS comes from Richmond that Local Editor Robert Lee Davis, of the Register, and wife are rejoicing over the advent of their first born, a 11-pound boy, which they have named Thomas Overstreet Davis, in honor his paternal grandpa and maternal grandma.

We hope Brer Davis' joy will never turn into sorrow, but we opine he won't rejoice so much when the youngster makes him pace the floor all night long these cold nights.

"BRYANISM, or A Tale of the Newest South," by Henry Taylor Noel, of Lancaster, Boston Arena Publishing Co., Printers, has been received at this office, and of it our book critic says: "It resembles the two French towns, Toulouse and Toulon. The love affair existing between Joe Pitkins and Miss Sophia Meachem is a little unusual to say the least.

The fair Sophia did not take Ruth Ashmore's advice, which is "Do not believe a man is in love with you, unless he tells you so." The Negro dialect of the book is perfect and on the whole is quite entertaining. The story is open to a sequel."

Miss Maggie Dunn is agent for it and will be here in a few days to solicit. It is well worth the price—50 cents.

NARROWLY AVERTED TRAGEDY.—Just after the conclusion of Hon. J. W. Bailey's speech Friday night several gentlemen, including Sheriff Newland, were standing in front of Baughman's livery stable discussing and complimenting it, when a gold-standard-Baptist stepped up and began pointing out and its defects.

About that time a free-silver Campbellite came along and was soon in an argument with the g. s. B., which waxed warm until red hot, when one of them grew weary of talking and wanted to fight.

The other was willing and blood might have flowed had not cooler heads taken part. When church members reach that point where they can not talk politics without wanting to fight, then they should stop it and go to discussing religion.

The Young Ladies' Society of the Presbyterian church will give a pound party on next Friday evening, Oct. 9th, at the college. Everybody invited to come and bring a pound. No admission fee.

Run Down.—John Trester and family came near losing death at Shelby City. A freight train ran into their wagon, but fortunately all escaped injury but Mr. Trester, who was hurt in the head and otherwise, though not seriously.

MOONSHINERS.—Deputy Marshal William Stringer, of Pittsburg, passed down to Louisville Sunday with three moonshiners he had captured during the last few days. They were Hense Hail, Curtis Beckner and Sallie Phillau and were a pretty tough looking set.

Our Southern End friends should not fail to hear the speeches of Messrs. Robert Harding and J. W. Rawlings at Kingsville Saturday afternoon next. They are both good speakers and it will be time well spent in listening to them. Go and see that your neighbors do likewise.

The Somerset Reporter says that Dr. J. M. Owens, of that place, has taken the stump for Bryan and Sewall. Dr. Owens, who married a sister of Mr. S. M. Owens, of this county, was here some weeks ago and told an I. J. reporter that he had been a republican all of his life, but that he had left that party and would hereafter cast his lot with the democrat.

He is a warm free silver man, a great admirer of Mr. Bryan and believes with the mass of us that he will be the next president.

Don't Show Up.—Mr. Ben Lee Hardin, of Harrodsburg, spoke to a crowded house at Smith's school-house, near South Fork, Friday night. The republicans of that section had boasted that they couldn't get a democratic speaker to answer some of their orators, but their man came up missing that night and Mr. Hardin had things his own way.

Mr. S. M. Owens, who heard him, says he made the effort of his life and that he put the people to thinking as they have never done before.

KINGSVILLE.—Mrs. Granville Murphy died at her home here Sunday after a protracted illness of typhoid fever. She was a sister of John A. Singleton, who was magistrate for a number of years and was an excellent woman. Her remains were laid to rest at 2 P. M., yesterday.

Mr. Owens, who recently moved from Somerset to South Fork, made a fine speech to the Bryan Club Friday night.

The Kings Mountain Canning Co., has closed down for the season.—Miss Mary Quinlan, of Junction City, is a guest of the Misses Pennybacker.

DISCHARGED.—Elijah L. King for the murder of Ab Fish at a box party near Crab Orchard, an account of which we published at the time, was tried before Squire Dawson, "deputy county judge," Friday and acquitted. The proof was that Fish behaved very badly and that when King attempted to quiet him and put him out, he cut him in a most vicious manner, cutting his clothes several times, but doing no serious damage. King then jerked up a fence stake and struck the blow that produced death. There were many witnesses and four speeches; Messrs. C. C. & R. G. Williams, both making excellent efforts for the defense, while Hon. F. F. Robbitt and County Attorney J. B. Paxton made vigorous speeches for the Commonwealth.

MATRIMONIAL MATTERS.

—Dr. J. W. Fisher and Miss Nenia Ballenger were married in London.

—George Isaacs, of Letcher county, has been married eight times and is now a widower.

—Mary Cross, a 14-year-old girl living near Rock House, this State, fell dead while walking to church.

—At Angola, Ind., Francis Sowle, aged 60, and Mrs. Nancy Manahan, 55, were joined hand if not in heart.

—The Pineville Courier reports the filing of 12 suits for divorce in that miniature Chicago, under the hills.

—Matrimony proved a failure to Mrs. A. S. Frazer, of Cairo, Ill., and she shot herself to death as she lay beside her husband in bed.

—William Shrader and wife, of Wabash, Ind., have separated. They were married three months ago. The husband is 17 and the wife is 16.

—Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Eberhardt, of Hicksville, Ind., have discovered that they are brother and sister, having been separated when infants. They have two children.

—George Wilson and Miss Susie Woods, who were attending a country school near Alliance, O., were married while riding the same horse on their return from school. She is 17 and he is only 15.

—On Thursday afternoon a well-known machinist of this place and a mighty pretty young lady who resides in the East End of town, will drive to Lancaster and be made one after God's Holy Ordinance. Names later on.

—W. H. Kinnaird, the oldest bank cashier in Kentucky in point of continuous service, and his excellent wife, will celebrate their golden wedding next Thursday at their hospitable home at Lancaster. Although he is 74, Squire Kinnaird looks 30 years younger and is as active and full of vim and life as most men are at 50.

CRAB ORCHARD.

Mr. J. S. Fish is very low and is not expected to live but a few days. Mr. J. Hutchison is also very low.

—College Home moves along very pleasantly, with frequent accessions and promises a very prosperous year.

—Dr. Walter Beazley and wife, of Lancaster, are guests of Mr. W. A. Beazley and family. Mrs. Wilhoit, of Woodford, is visiting the family of Mr. Wm. Stuart.

Quite a number of friends from a distance attended the burial of little May Etta Mayfield. Miss Capitola Slaughter left for the Female Orphan School Saturday.

—Mrs. A. D. Reid, a gifted elocutionist, an expert trainer in Delsarte and Physical Culture, will give an entertainment with her class of bright young ladies and a number of smaller girls and boys next Friday night. The terms of admission are so very low, 10 and 15 cents, that we feel assured she will have a good hearing.

Park City Times, of Bowling Green, said of her entertainment there that "it was the best ever given in Bowling Green." She will likely take her class to Walnut Flat and Brodhead.

—After a brief illness, sweet little May Etta Mayfield passed quietly away at 2 o'clock P. M. Saturday, and she is now a precious little lamb on the bosom of her loving Saviors. Four bright years numbered her sunny stay upon this earth, and before the blighting breath of sin could dim those lustrous eyes, or the clouds of earth cast a shadow upon her angelic brow, her dear little spirit took its flight to those beautiful heavenly courts, where with one little hand she is sweeping a golden harp and with the other she is beckoning to mamma, papa and other friends to come up to God, with whom, in comforting words to her mamma, she said: "I'll stay two weeks with God and then come back to you." Her little body, in casket white, was borne by four little boys and was laid to rest among the roses in Grandpa Stuart's garden, and

"Sure earth hath never known a thing more fair Than she who gently, calmly slumbers there."

Mr. and Mrs. Mayfield desire to express their deepest thanks to their friends for their extreme kindness in this great affliction.

—F. W. M. Cutchon, of Minnesota, who the Courier Journal describes as "a captivating orator, a cogent reasoner and a rock ribbed democrat, will speak at Danville today." In that event, one would judge his speech will be for Bryan.

—Augustus R. Hall, of Ghent, was in the cemetery awaiting the arrival of the funeral procession of J. Q. Tandy and was bright, cheerful and seemingly in good health, when he dropped as if shot. Friends carried him immediately to his home, just across the street, but life was extinct before they reached the house.—Circuitron Democrat.

MORROW A GOOSE.—In his speech at Whit's Well, Robbitt writes us that he said: I was amused this evening in Crab Orchard when Judge Morrow told in his speech that when he was dangerously ill with a chill his wife poured a pint of whisky and two feather beds down him. I was not astonished to learn the pint of whisky went down without any resistance from the colonel, but I was astonished to learn that he had swallowed the two feather beds, but after he made that statement I was not astonished to find him such a goose on the money question. He had swallowed feathers enough to feather a whole flock of geese.
